ABSTRACT

Designed to follow up a 1981-82 study which established base line information on microcomputers and their use for K-12 schools in Louisiana and two subsequent annual surveys, this report presents information for the 1984-85 school year. After a brief introduction describing the population surveyed and instruments used, survey findings are summarized; figures are based on responses from 911 schools (61%) and 65 local education agencies (98%). Detailed survey results are then presented in 17 data tables which show: (1) institutions not using computers in instruction; (2) percentage of schools using and not using computers between the years 1981 and 1985; (3) computer utilization by grade levels; (4) distribution of computer use in the schools across subject areas; (5) total number of computers in the schools, 1981-1985; (6) number of computers by make and model; (7) functional use of computers and number of students served; (8) demographics of students taking courses which utilize computers; (9) number of schools with special programs that encourage girls or special education students to use computers; (10) number of schools with access to district computer planning; (11) selected locations of computers within schools; (12) computer software sources; (13) sources of computer equipment maintenance; (13) average and total number of teachers receiving computer training; (14) number of schools using other technologies in conjunction with computers; (15) sources of funds for computers; (16) number of schools reporting various sources of funds used to purchase computers; and (17) number of schools by type purchasing computers from the state contract. Also included are five recommendations for the Louisiana Department of Education, the survey instrument, and four appendices which provide raw data from the survey. (JB)

THE USE OF THE COMPUTER IN LOUISIANA SCHOOLS

INTRODUCTION

The proliferation of computers in Louisiana schools is accelerating at an astounding rate. The Louisiana Department of Education has made a concentrated effort in developing its role of providing information and guidance to the teachers and administrators. The current status of the use of computers in our Louisiana schools was measured to identify problems and needs in our educational community in order that the Department could design its activities to aid Louisiana schools in the effective use of computers. This publication briefly reports on the findings of the fourth annual survey. Any questions regarding the analyses of these surveys should be directed to Dr. John Hubbell at (504) 342-0090. The results of the first three surveys are described in earlier annual versions of Bulletin 1679.

THE POPULATION

According to the Louisiana Department of Education Annual Report, there are currently 1,488 public schools and 420 nonpublic schools in the State of Louisiana. The public schools are distributed among 66 Local Education Agencies (LEA's). In 1981-1982 the Superintendent of each LEA was contacted by the Department, and a short survey instrument was designed and mailed to the individual designated by each LEA Superintendent as the Instructional Computing Coordinator. Annually since then, similar survey instruments were sent to all public and nonpublic schools. For the 1984-85 school year the survey instrument was sent to all schools by November 1, 1984.

THE INSTRUMENT

The survey instrument, designed to capture information on the instructional use of the computer in the schools, is shown in Appendix A.

FINDINGS

Of the schools contacted, 911 schools responded voluntarily to the survey. Of the 66 LEA's involved, all but one responded. All LEA's responding were using computers in two or more schools. In the first year's survey, only 40 LEA's had microcomputers in one or more schools. Currently, 762 of the responding schools are using computers in instruction and 149 are not (Table 1). These figures indicate 84 percent of the schools are using computers this year compared with 81 percent in 83-84, 32 percent in 82-83, and 27 percent in 81-82 (Table 2). The distribution of instructional computing across grades (Table 3) shows that all grade levels--K through 12--are involved, with the most involvement at the fifth grade level. Last year grade 12 ranked first. Of interest is the increase in activity in grades 3, 4, 5, and 6. Table 4 shows the distribution of computer use across subject areas. Once again, the computer is used most in mathematics courses.

A total of 482 computers was reported by the schools in January of 1982; in October 1982 the total was 1,373. Thus in less than one year, the number almost tripled. Last year the number was 4,350. This is more than three times the previous year's count (Table 5). This year's total was 6,844. The rate at which schools are acquiring computers is slowing down.

For the fourth year in a row the Tandy Corporation computers maintained their place as the most widely used computers (Table 6). However their lead over Apple, in the number two position, has decreased. This year the Tandy computers represent 27.3 percent of the units, and Apple is next with 26.5 percent. Last year the Tandy computers represented 34 percent of the units, and Apple came next with 27 percent. This year Frankin, which is Apple compatible, is in third place with 19.7 percent.

The numbers of schools employing the computer in the following functional areas are listed from most used to least used in Table 7. Computer Assisted Instruction and Computer Education Instruction were first and second in number of schools.

Equal access is of major interest to educators. Table 8 indicates that of the students taking courses in which students use a computer, 52 percent are girls and 48 percent are boys. About 6 percent of these boys and girls in such courses are Special Education students other than Gifted and Talented. According to the Louisiana Department of Education's Annual Report, the general school population of 942,000 public and nonpublic students includes about 7 percent such Special Education students. These data indicate that though not all public and nonpublic students have access to the computer, there is no bias because of sex or Special Education exceptionality. Table 9 shows 57 schools have special programs to encourage girls to take such courses, and 257 schools have special programs to encourage the Special Education group.

Of the schools responding 26 percent have access to a district computer plan, 36 percent to a hardware purchase process, 34 percent to a software purchase process, and 20 percent to an approved software list (Table 10). Of the schools that responded to the question concerning purchasing computers from the state contract, 22 percent of the public schools used the contract and 9 percent of the Catholic Schools used the contract (Table 17).

This year the computer laboratory was the most common location for the computers (Table 11), followed by the regular classroom which was number one last year. The most frequent source of computer software is the commercial software vendor again this year (Table 12). Software from the public domain, software from nonprofit consortiums, and software written by teachers, were second, third, and fourth in numbers of schools. Other responses included software written by students and software from lending libraries.

Five hundred thirty-seven schools reported that their computer maintenance was provided by the local vendor (Table 13).

More teachers were trained this year; 7,543 teachers received training through inservice workshops in the past year (Table 14). The 622 schools that reported teachers trained in workshops averaged 12 teachers trained.

BEST COPY AVAILABLE

Table 15 shows the number of schools using other technologies. Videotapes were most widely used, followed by Instructional Television. Schools indicated that the most popular source of funds used to purchase computers was the parent teacher organization, followed by Chapter I funds (Table 16).

Certain questions of interest from earlier surveys were dropped, since the past data collected indicated that probably no new information would be gained from repeating the questions this year. Over the past few surveys, inservice teacher training was selected as a top need. A hotline to answer questions on computers and computer software received top rating as a service that would be useful to the schools.

CONCLUSIONS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

This study indicated that the number of computers is still increasing. This year the schools reported an increase of 2,494 computers, or 57 percent over the number reported last year. The previous year's increase was 2,977 computers, or 217 percent. A large number of our educational community have embraced this technological aid by providing both equipment and programs on their own initiative at the LEA level. About half of the computers in the schools run Apple-compatible software. This represents the largest compatible group that can share software. Next is Tandy Radio Shack at 27 percent, followed by Commodore at 8 percent.

The Louisiana Department of Education should continue to provide assistance in the following areas:

1. Computer Awareness workshops for teachers and administrators.

2. Preparation and distribution of packages providing information concerning (a) instructional uses of the computer, (b) guidelines for acquisition of microcomputer hardware and software, and (c) guidelines for integrating the computer into the curricula of the schools. The Curriculum Guide for Computer Literacy has been prepared and is being piloted this school year.

3. Establishment of a statewide network of Computing Resource Centers through which the Department can aid in the orchestration of developing and distributing instructional computing resources and services to the educational community.

4. Participation on a State level in regional and national educational computing organizations, such as the Minnesota Educational Computing Corporation, that develop, distribute, and/or evaluate instructional software.

5. Establishment of a structure and process to continue to identify problems and the changing needs in this area. The recent formation of a statewide task force on computer literacy represents a beginning in this area.

The microcomputer is in our homes and schools. The Department's active guidance in Computer education is needed to reduce waste and confusion and to encourage maximal benefits from this technological aid to education.

APPENDICES AND THEIR USES

The appendices are designed to enable educators to locate schools using similar computers in similar areas in order to share ideas, educational materials, software, and hardware information.

Appendix A shows the survey instrument.

Appendix B indicates in which grade levels and subject areas schools reported using computers. The schools are listed within parish. The left-most column contains the name of the school. The other columns represent grade levels K through 12 and the subject areas. A nonblank character in a column indicates that the school listed reported using the computer in that grade level or subject area.

Appendix C shows the make and model of computer listed by school. Appendix D shows the schools using computers listed by make. Suppose Ms. Brown, a teacher in Caddo Parish, is planning to use the computer in a business class, Appendix B would be used to locate schools in Caddo and neighboring parishes that are using computers in business classes. Appendix C provides information about the make and model of the computers used by those schools. This information is needed to determine whether or not the software being used is compatible with Ms. Brown's computers. Appendix D allows users of a particular make or computer system to locate other schools using the same system. This information facilitates the distribution of software and software information to users of compatible systems.

Computers of all kinds are being used more frequently in our schools. We support this trend but feel that teachers need more resources in order to use computers effectively. We are trying to determine what resources should be provided to the schools and to the Central Offices. If you have questions please call Shirley McCandless or John Hubbell at (504) 342-0090.
